Early Childhood Pathways Exams Study Groups

Charter Oak State College Pathways Exams offer individuals the opportunity to convert their knowledge of Early Childhood Practice and Child Development into college credit. The Early Care & Education Training Institute is facilitating Study Groups to assist you in preparing for these exams. Attending study groups does not guarantee your success but has shown a higher than average pass rate than those not participating in study groups. Passing these exams will earn you three college credits per exam. The multiple-choice exams being offered are Introduction to Early Childhood Education and Child Developmental Psychology.

Connecticut Community Colleges and Post University accept these credits and can also be used toward a degree at Charter Oak State College. Other colleges and universities may accept these credits in place of their own courses, or the credits may be used as elective credits. It is advisable to call the institution you want to attend to find out how the credits will transfer.

Study Groups for the Infant/Toddler Growth & Development and the Early Language & Literacy Exams will be facilitated in January and February in Ansonia. ECETI will also facilitate study groups for these two exams in the Danbury area if sufficient interest is demonstrated. Please check the appropriate box(es) on the registration form if interested.
